

SHARON MATTISON TOWN CLERK

Sharon Mattison is seeking her fourth term as Clarkson Town Clerk and Tax Collector. She had previously served as Clarkson Court Clerk. Mattison has shown a strong commitment to Clarkson residents by increasing her office hours to include evenings, weekends and early mornings.

During her years as a court clerk, she secured several court-related grants and has continued to pursue records management grants as the Town Clerk.

In 2010, Mattison began collecting school taxes, a task she is not required to do but which eased the taxpaying process for Clarkson residents and provided a benefit to the Brockport School District. Two years ago, Mattison brought tax processing fully back into her office, eliminating potential bank fees of thousands of dollars annually.

Mattison and her late husband, owners of Ridgecrest Turkey Farm, raised their three children in Clarkson. She now enjoys spending time with her grandson. Mattison is an active volunteer for the Seymour Library After Hours Fundraiser (since its inception), Good Neighbor Days, and this year, the Town of Clarkson's Bicentennial Celebration. She is also a member of the Garland Cemetery Board.
